BRAND GUIDELINES

2026

How we look.

Brand identity refers to the elements representing a brand: design, color, logo, and type. Together, these elements help make a brand distinct and memorable.

Our identity is flexible enough to grow with us while remaining consistent and recognizable.

Logo colors

Like AI, and like a person's skills, our favicon is always evolving. While it always uses our brand colors, we allow ultimate flexibility by having infinite color options, making our logo truly unique.

The primary and preferred use of the Onlyfold logo is the standard logo on a white or light background. If you cannot use the standard full-color logo, use the logo in black, white, or reversed with color. Only use the one-color logo over gradients and backgrounds, where the standard full-color logo does not offer appropriate contrast.

Color.

Our color palette unifies elements across our brand, expresses the Onlyfold company personality, and distinguishes us from other companies.

Primary colors

Our primary colors consist of bright, jewel-tone colors that convey the tone and personality of the Onlyfold brand. Always start with the primary colors and use them in at least a 2:1 ratio with secondary colors. The primary colors make up our freeform gradients and library of subtle gradients.

Try to always incorporate the Onlyfold Teal when possible. It is a legacy remnant of our origins and a core color in the Onlyfold DNA.

Secondary colors

Our secondary colors accent the primary color palette and introduce hues that complement and provide functionality. Use them sparingly throughout illustration, presentations, and diagrams.

Specialty colors

Our specialty colors should be used in situations where the primary or secondary colors are not optimal because of accessibility, or other practical or aesthetic needs.

Text Grey is our default choice for subheads and body text.

Recommended color pairings

There are some colors in the Onlyfold palette that work better together. Choose colors that provide enough contrast for legibility and uphold the look of the Onlyfold brand.

Always start with the primary palette. Use these colors in our graphics, icons, backgrounds, and typography.

Core Navy, White, and Electric Blue work best as backgrounds

Combinations to avoid

Avoid color combinations that don't contrast, don't work well together, or don't feel like the Onlyfold brand. Don't use Secondary or Specialty colors in excess.

Accessibility

We adhere to the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG) to ensure that everyone will be able to use Onlyfold's web properties effectively while aligning with the Onlyfold brand.

Please endeavor to comply with the following text and backgr CTA buttonCTA buttonCTA button ound color combination examples.

Combinations to avoid

Avoid color combinations that don't pass WCAG standards or don't align with the Onlyfold brand.

The image displays eight horizontal bars, each representing a different color scheme for the text 'Aa'. Each bar is divided into two sections: 'RECOMMENDED / PASS' and 'NOT RECOMMENDED / FAIL'. The bars are colored as follows: 1. Blue, 2. Dark Blue, 3. Light Grey, 4. Purple, 5. Teal, 6. Red, 7. Orange, 8. Light Teal. The text 'Aa' is shown in various colors and styles across the bars, indicating which combinations are recommended or not recommended.

Typography.

Organize typography in a system of hierarchy. Do this according to relative importance — the most important information should be the largest or most obvious piece of information on the page and displayed in the headline font.

Onlyfold brand font

Gilroy is a modern sans-serif font characterized by its geometric construction and clean lines, making it a popular choice for graphic design and display purposes. It has a minimalist esthetic and is known for its versatility and legibility.

Gilroy is well-suited for a wide range of design applications, including graphic design, web design, branding, signage, and editorial design.

While geometric, Gilroy also incorporates humanist characteristics, softening its appearance and enhancing its legibility.

Onlyfold brand font

Organizing typography in a hierarchy is vital to draw attention to the correct information. This example is the primary and most fundamental combination of the Onlyfold brand fonts—headline, subheadline, and body copy. It combines various font widths, weights, and sizes to create a clear and consistent hierarchy.

Guidelines for type sizing, leading, and tracking provide a framework for consistency throughout all brand communication.

What follows are some additional font layouts that are useful when creating pieces that require flexibility but still need to be on-brand.

Alternative font

In situations where Gilroy is not available, such as in Microsoft Office Application, please use Arial as an alternative.
